At an expense of $1,00,000 the bank has purchased two properties adjoining its present site. The cost of constructing the new building will be about $4,00,000.

The ground area of the new structure will be 180 by $25 feet, or more than twice the area of Chicago's great Masonic Temple.

The frontage on Monroe street will be an entire block to the west of Monroe street, with the exception of ninety feet on the Clark street corner.

Sixteen stories will be the height of the structure, if a satisfactory building permit can be secured. Work on the building will begin next May.

MAJOR STRONG AND MAY YOHE HAPPY.

Expect the Stork to Visit Them at Their Yokohama Home in March.

PROPOSE TO GO ON THE STAGE.

Strong's Finances Seem to Be Depleted and His Temperament Undergoes a Very Disagreeable Change,

SPECIAL BY CABLE. Honolulu, Dec. 28, via San Francisco. Cal., Dec. 27.—Returning tourists who were entertained by Major Bradley Strong and May Yohe in Yokohama state that they expect a visit from the stork within a few months. The interesting event is expected to occur next March.

Pending the event, Major Strong and his consort propose to remain in Yokohama and maintain their present expensive establishment.

This very surprising information is given by passengers aboard the American steamer Maru, which arrived here yesterday from Yokohama, Four of the passengers aboard the vessel were entertained at dinner by Strong and Miss Yoke several nights before the Maru sailed.

Both Strong and the woman seemed to be happy over the prospect, and with the woman it seemed to be a matter of special

Major Strong declares that he and Miss Yohe propose to go to Manila. Just how long they will remain in that place he does not say; but inasmuch as he is well known there by his former army associates, the treatment which they will receive can be contectured. conjectured.

Major Strong has, moreover, announced that he proposes to go on the stuge with May Yohe. Some of his guests got the impression that he intends to make his debut at Manila, but as he did not enter very much into the details of his theatrical engagement, the exact date of their debut and the character of the drama which they will produce are not known.

If the reports which are brought here from Yokohama prove correct, it is very likely that Strong and his consort will soon have to exert themselves to keep in funds. Money is believed now to be getting very low with them. Certamly Strong's financial standing in Yokohama is not so good as it was, and already the largest commercial house of that place has shut down on his credit.

Credit Refused.

Credit Refused.

Langfeldt & Co, is the name of the firm. Strong was indebted to them to the extent of 4,000 to 5,000 yen for wines and various supplies for his establishment. Hearing that Strong's finances were rather short, a bill was sent to Strong. Within a couple of days Strong sent back word that he woull be unable to settle his account for a few days, as he had falled to receive money which he had ordered from New York. His excuse was taken as sufficient indication of the state of his finances, so orders were given to allow him no more credit at Langfeldt & Co.'s house.

Many of the people who first frequented the Strong establishment have begun to desert the couple, and it is now the common gossip in Yokohama that they will sooner or later have to leave, as their funds are running low.

switches became as familiar, to her as the city's streets.

It was 7:30 o'clock when she crossed the tracks at Twenty-first street. A Missouri Pacific train was coming toward her from the West. She saw it, but misjudged the track upon which it was running. The heavy engine bore down upon her, and she did not realize her danger until the locomotive was within a few feet of her. She turned then, but stood paralyzed with fear. She was knocked down and ground beneath the wheels.

Officer Brennan of the Central District was the first to reach her. He lifted her and carried her to the Twenty-first street bridge, where an ambulance was summoned. She was taken to the City Hospital, where it was found that the wheels had passed over both legs. She died at noon.

Two months ago her husband, Lames

In some quarters it is even stated that Strong has become indebted to a number of the sporty element who have frequented his place. It is more than probable, however, that if this be true his indebtedness consists of a string of debts of honor, for both he and May Yohe are reported to be constant gamblers.

Some of those who have been entertained in Strong's place say that he has developed the most startling propensity to exaggerate all of his statements, and has frequently been detected in the most extrawagant and unnecessarily false declarations. He becomes very morose at times, and fights between him and his guests are frequent. The rows do not appear to be on account of May Yohe, but arise from the quarrelsome nature of Strong. Little stock is taken in Yokohama in Strong's claim that he won Yokohama in Strong's claim that he won $20,000 in Nortern Pacific stocks the first of the year, and people in Yokohama have already begun to look for the beginning of the end.
